

Word Study for --- SYROPHENICIAN

A close-up photograph of a rocky, pebbly ground. The ground is covered with small, dark grey and black pebbles, interspersed with larger, light brown and tan stones. In the center of the image, there is a small, brown, fuzzy caterpillar with long, thin, dark hairs extending from its body. The caterpillar is positioned horizontally, facing left. The text "Mark 07:26 The woman was a Greek, a Syrophenician by nation; and she besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter." is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font, centered horizontally and vertically.

Mark 07:26 The woman was a Greek, a Syrophenician by nation;
and she besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter.